29th March 2023

Nelson Felgueiras, councilor for sport at the Guimarães City Council, opened the session by welcoming everyone present. Afterwards, Amadeu Portilha, president of the board of Tempo Livre, reiterated his greetings to all, and as host invited the participants to pay a short visit to the Multiusos de Guimarães.

The session continued with José Martins, presenting the agenda for the meeting. Then he summarized the SPACHE plan from 2021 to 2023 and all the tasks included in the different work packages. The creation of the 5th and last newsletter was also discussed, with April 10 being indicated as the deadline for the delivery of contributions for this edition. An initial approach was also made to the realization of the Multipliers Events. One of the important points highlighted was the need for the documents produced to be validated by the "Quality Board". Two specialists are defined for this purpose, one for each area of activity. Quality Board composed of both a cultural heritage senior expert (Andreas Wiesand, European Institute for Comparative Cultural Research) and a sport/physical activity senior expert (Pedro Sarmento, Sports Faculty of Porto University). The Spache Guidelines, Handbook, Special Journal Edition, and the Capacity building toolkit are some of the documents that must be validated by the Quality Board.

Eva Jacomet then presented the editorial line of the Handbook and the update of the contents of the Special Journal Edition, highlighting the contributions made by the consortium partners. She requested that pictures be sent to her to illustrate the edition. She also indicated that contributions and suggestions can still be added as long as they are brief.

Following the meeting Game Mothibi (Tafisa) presented the Educations Modules and guided an experimental session. She highlighted that the contents are designed to organize workshops of varying duration and according to the intended context and objectives. For instance, the workshop can last 1 hour to two days, depending on the aims for the event. Partners were also asked to send examples and strategies on how to make heritage known through physical activity and also how to open up heritage sites to sporting activities.

The session ended with an exchange of ideas and clarifications on the issues addressed by all participants.

In the afternoon, participants were able to experience the pilot program developed in Guimarães, promoted by Tempo Livre and Guimarães City Council, together with local partners ADCL – Association for the Development of Local Communities, Grouping of Schools of Vale de São Torcato and Folkloric Group from Corredoura. The activity was carried out next to the Palace of the Dukes. and consisted of an explanation of the cycle of linen and the tasks involved, followed by a physical activity session with exercises inspired by the different phases of the process.

The second day's session began with the presentation of the final results of the Social Impact Assessment, by Emma Paladino (IRS). She started by describing the methodology, participants, and the main evidence from the questionnaires. Then in addition to general demographics, the most relevant aspects of each pilot program were highlighted, such as the common elements and the evaluation and impact of each one of them in the local communities.

The next topic it was the Multiplier Sport Events, considering the future activities of the project and the fact that MSE will still be held in Portugal (Guimarães), the Netherlands (Friesland), Belgium (Brussels) and Italy (Gargnano). The importance of mobilizing participants from different organizations was highlighted, according to the requirements for each of the countries as well the preparation of the event report. The partners also discussed the different possibilities of organizing the event according to the proposed objectives.
